

Dr. László Nyitrai, Associate Professor
Head of Department of Biochemistry
Eötvös Loránd University
Budapest, Pázmány P. s. 1/c,
H-1112 HUNGARY

January 17, 2011

I'm impressed by the collaboration of research groups at the Eötvös Loránd University and the Institute of Enzymology of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences to establish an Open Laboratory and an English Language of Master of Science program under the name of Protein Science.

This "Open Laboratory" is a continuation of Albert Szent-Györgyi's ideas from his Szeged years.

The plans, including a lecture series would re-enforce and demonstrate how a small country can produce first rate research. It is a pleasure for me personally, who has worked for him for fourteen years, and the family concurs if the lecture series will be named after Albert Szent-Györgyi.

Andrew G. Szent-Györgyi